Growing, Expanding, and Staying True to Ourselves

The big news: Polar Latitudes and Albatros Expeditions have joined forces and are now operating under one name, Polar Latitudes Expeditions, beginning with the summer 2026 Arctic season. This merger offers an exciting opportunity, as well as an important responsibility – to stay true to what has always made us both special: being companies that people genuinely want to travel with and work for, and emphasizing a shared spirit of exploration and discovery with everyone on board.

As Polar Latitudes Expeditions, we can now offer more places to explore, more cabin options and amenities, and more itineraries – reaching life-changing destinations in Antarctica, across the Arctic, and beyond.

Our combined fleet includes four exceptional vessels, from the classic expedition-style Ocean Nova to the future-forward Ocean Albatros and Ocean Victory, as well as our beloved Seaventure, which boasts one of the highest ice ratings among passenger ships. Together, these ships represent some of the lowest per-passenger carbon footprints in polar waters.

What's not changing are the things that matter most: our highly trained and experienced team, our focus on maximizing time off ship, and our commitment to protecting the environments and communities that make these journeys possible.

Every polar season is special, but this one promises to be extraordinary. We hope you'll join us on this great adventure.

All Penguins Are Created Equal – All Voyages Are Not

Browsing travel companies' websites or brochures, the similarities are hard to miss: sculptural icebergs, majestic glaciers, abundant wildlife, dramatic mountains, and fascinating native communities. And honestly, those highlights will be there regardless of who you travel with. But that doesn't mean all experiences will be the same.

Here's what you can expect from us:

MORE TIME EXPLORING

No one offers a more immersive polar experience. Weather permitting, we'll have you off the ship and exploring twice daily, for an average of six hours each day. From kayaking to camping, from hiking on foot to soaring overhead, everything we offer will bring you more intimately engaged with these incredible polar environments.

A MORE EXPERIENCED TEAM

Our expedition staff return season after season, bringing with them an average of twelve years' experience. You'll explore with polar veterans who know the regions intimately and can adjust to weather and ice conditions without interruption, ensuring unforgettable moments day in and day out.

MORE PERSONALIZED EXPERIENCE

We offer a range of expedition ships, from ultra-modern to classic expedition style, with a wide choice of cabins, features, and amenities. Carrying between 80 and 178 guests, our ships maintain a guest-to-team ratio of between 7:1 and 8:1 – ensuring a small-ship, highly attentive experience on board, on the water, and on land.

MORE CAMARADERIE

From expedition team to onboard crew to fellow explorers, there is an unmistakable sense of connection both on board and off. Guests often say it feels like a family. You'll join kindred explorers, sharing unforgettable moments, exchanging photographs and stories, and returning home with more than just memories – maybe even with new friends for life.

MORE POSITIVE IMPACT

Like any good guest, we believe in leaving the places we visit better for having been there. That responsibility begins with one of the industry's lowest carbon footprints and extends to meaningful engagement with the local communities we so depend on. A pioneering Citizen Science program, local scholarship initiatives, and cultural exchange with remote Inuit communities are among the efforts fundamental to our polar commitment.

We Are All Explorers

There's something about the magnificent, mysterious, and rarely tread-upon polar regions that captures the heart, ignites the imagination, and instantly awakens the explorer's spirit in everyone privileged enough to experience this part of the world. It's easy to understand why so many legendary explorers are drawn to these places time and again – as you are now.

Our job, as we see it, is to feed that explorer's spirit every day at sea, in every way imaginable. It begins and ends with getting you off the ship and intimately engaged with the environment. Twice-daily outings, averaging six hours off ship, are among the longest offered by anyone. A deeply experienced team and our supremely ice-rated expedition ships prioritize opportunities that will distinguish your memories from all others. Both on board and off, no one delivers more Antarctica and the Arctic than we do, in a spirit of collaboration, camaraderie, and fun.

Get more from your upcoming polar adventure. Join us on the ultimate trip of a lifetime – not as a visitor or an observer, but as an explorer.

An Expedition Team That's Extraordinary in Multiple Ways

Working in the polar regions demands a rare combination of skill, experience, and adaptability – and our expedition team brings all of that, and more. Beyond their deep expertise, broad range of talents, and enthusiasm for the places we visit that quickly spreads to everyone around them, they are quick to respond to changing weather or ice patterns, while always keeping an eye toward the next unforgettable opportunity. They also happen to be some of the nicest and most welcoming people – the kind you'll enjoy exploring with by day, and sharing stories, meals, or an evening cocktail with after.

MEET SOME OF OUR TEAM

In addition to their extraordinary knowledge and experience, our team members are incredibly fascinating individuals, hailing from many countries, with diverse backgrounds, talents, and stories to share. Here are some of the Expedition Leaders who may be leading your next great polar adventure.

HANNAH LAWSON has been sharing her love of birdlife and marine mammals aboard expedition ships since 1999. After studying zoology at the University of Liverpool, she worked as a wildlife artist and muralist in Africa for several years. Hannah later gained her Masters in Natural History Illustration from the Royal College of Art in London, while leading projects with the British Trust for Conservation Volunteers. She continues to pursue her art while working for us as a wildlife guide and expedition leader.

LORI GROSS brings a diverse background and set of skills to her role as Assistant Expedition Leader, including over two decades working in sustainable tourism and education, a thriving career as a photographer and guest speaker, and a travel resume covering all seven continents. Lori's list of accomplishments includes securing major funding for magnet schools, designing interactive exhibits for nature centers and museums, developing field studies for teens, and winning several prestigious photography awards. But her greatest love remains Antarctica, and sharing it with all our guests.

GERT VAN DALEN joined us as Expedition Leader in 2024, bringing with him a long and storied relationship with the natural world. Ever since he was young, Afrikaner Gert has displayed boundless curiosity towards the intricate relationships between biota. After graduating from the oldest technical high school in South Africa, he pursued his dream of working closely with wildlife. By age 20 he was managing his first game preserve, combining his two greatest passions – exposing people to nature's greatest wonders, and safekeeping the same. In 2018, he traded Land Cruisers for Zodiacs, and has been sailing from pole to pole ever since.

DANNY EDMUNDS has worked as a photographer, diver, travel writer and Expedition Leader in some of the most remote parts of the world. He's driven Zodiacs in every ocean, radio-tracked Spectacled Bears in the Ecuadorian Andes, surveyed horse-mussel beds off the Llyn Peninsula in North Wales, and updated the Bradt Guides to Mozambique and Spitsbergen. Danny spent 16 months living south of the Antarctic Circle working as a Boating Officer at Rothera, the British Antarctica survey base, and has twelve seasons' experience aboard ships in the southern Ocean. Should you find yourself in a Zodiac with Danny, you'll have lots to talk about.

MARIA CASHIN has a deep love for the outdoors, and mountains in particular, that has taken her around the world for more than 30 years. Originally from the maritime province of Newfoundland, Maria earned a degree in Geology from the University of Calgary, and is a member of the Association of Canadian Mountain Guides. She has also owned and operated her own mountaineering company, Yamnuska Mountain Adventures. In 2012, she combined her professional qualifications, extensive guiding skills, and geology background to join the polar expedition industry, much to the delight of our wide-eyed guests.

TANIA JEKEN joined us 2024, but has been shining as an Assistant Expedition Leader ever since. Her passion for travel has taken her to more than 138 countries over the past twelve years, and in this time, her career has continually grown and developed, leading to her current role, sharing the fascinating polar regions with wide-eyed guests on behalf of Polar Latitudes Expeditions. Tania was born in Cape Town, South Africa - and grew up on a farm in Herbertsdale along the Garden Route, where she developed her deep love for nature and the outdoors.

LUYANG ZHAO joined us as Assistant Expedition Leader in 2019, and is now a highly skilled Expedition Leader. Born in Beijing, China, Luyang moved to Chile with his parents when he was still a teenager. He studied Cultural Tourism at the university there, earning his MBA, but soon discovered his dual passions when he began working as a translator and guide in the polar regions, where he could flex both his leadership talents and natural people skills. Luyang has a strong passion for the history of both Antarctica and the Arctic, and is fluent in English, Spanish and Mandarin Chinese. On board, he prefers to be called "Lu."

ANTHONIE LUTEIJN is a passionate polar guide, surfer, and life-long ocean lover. His deep passion for travel has taken him around the world, and he particularly enjoys the diversity of different countries and the fascinating people he meets along the way. Anthonie grew up in the southwestern part of the Netherlands, after which he moved to Delft, where he completed his Master's Degree in Hydraulic Engineering at the Technical University of Delft. He has a coastal specialization, which embraces a great interest in Oceanography. To Anthonie, the ocean is a diverse and endlessly fascinating place that feels like home.

MAXIMILIANO GOHDE, born and raised in Ushuaia, has been working exclusively for us since 2023. His relationship with Antarctica began as a child, since his father worked for USARP aboard the M/V Hero, and would often share stories of the White Continent. Maximiliano's fascinating past includes jobs as a snowboard instructor, a firefighter, and a helmsman on a motor sailing yacht. By the age of 26, his career path finally brought him back to Antarctica, and his passion for this untouched part of the world grows stronger with every journey. While his primary role is that of a guide, he is also well-versed in botany, birds and marine mammals.

DIEGO PUNTA FERNANDEZ has worked exclusively with us since 2019. Diego is an avid birder and naturalist with more than a decade of polar experience. A resident of Patagonia, he has a long history of guiding groups to the most isolated and unique places in the world, such as Argentina's El Chaltén, the Norwegian fjords, Svalbard, Greenland, Iceland, and Antarctica. Diego has developed many conservation projects in South Patagonia, and even finds time to run his own publishing company, 49Southphoto, which has published several guides to the flora and fauna of Patagonia, Antarctica, and the Arctic regions.

NATE SMALL makes his annual migration between Antarctica and the Arctic, following the Arctic Terns around the world each year. A veteran of nearly 100 polar voyages, Nate never tires of sharing his enduring passion for the natural world with our mesmerized guests. He is enthusiastic about all forms of wildlife (though he remains convinced he has close relatives in the whale family). An entrepreneur devoted to all things marine (and especially whale) related, Nate is co-founder of Marine Guide Training, and a co-owner and operator of Seasmoke Whale Watching in British Columbia. He is also an accomplished carpenter.

Responsible at Sea, Good Neighbors at Home

For us, responsible travel means a lot of different things, like:

- ✓ Minimizing our environmental impact wherever possible, which we accomplish, in part, with one of the lowest carbon footprint-per-passenger ratios in Arctic waters.
- ✓ Onboard programs like our Green Initiative, which prioritize sustainability, biodegradability, and widespread use of recycled products.
- ✓ Supporting environmental NGOs with travel and logistical support throughout the year, and giving our guests a chance to engage in their own meaningful research through our pioneering Citizen Science Program.
- ✓ Giving back to the communities we so depend on, through education and internship programs, fundraising, and participation in local clean-up efforts.
- ✓ Engaging with and supporting the remote communities we visit, to foster better understanding of cultures unlike our own.

A Responsibility That Extends Well Beyond the Bow of Our Ships

We travel to some pretty amazing places, but we never lose sight of our responsibility to give, and not just take, from the incredible lands and people we so depend on. This responsibility is most acutely felt in Ushuaia, the southernmost city on earth, and our home port for the duration of every Antarctic season. Working with regional schools to develop scholarship and internship programs, engaging with international universities in post-graduate studies related to the polar cruise industry, supporting local, sustainable sources, and a ground team that is 100% Ushuaia-sourced, are some of the ways we're not just in the community, but an active part of it.

That same mutual respect and responsibility continues when we leave port. Visiting Inuit communities in Greenland, we work exclusively with local guides to not only support their livelihoods, but to ensure that we walk their streets and visit their landmarks respectfully. And we engage with local Inuit citizens, who volunteer to share their homes and stories with us, creating better understanding between our diverse cultures. Our smaller ships and lower per-passenger carbon footprint are other ways we respect the fragile environments we visit.

Our Ground Team: Always There for You, and for the Local Community

Our unstoppable Ushuaia-based ground team handles a wide array of critical tasks, ensuring every aspect of your pre-voyage experience is managed with care, from airport transfers and hotel check-in to pre-voyage Q&A sessions and getting you to the ship on time and fully prepared. They are the steady presence behind the scenes, anticipating needs, solving problems before they arise, and making sure your journey begins smoothly and confidently.

Deeply rooted in Ushuaia, they are active members of the local community. They partner with regional organizations, support educational and environmental initiatives, and help foster meaningful connections between our guests and the place we call home. Their knowledge of the region, their professionalism, and their genuine warmth reflect the spirit of our expeditions – thoughtful, responsible, and community-minded.

Some of the Community Programs We're Engaged In

BEACH CLEAN-UP IN USHUAIA

Our ground team works with civic organizations in regularly-scheduled clean-up efforts on local beaches, one of the many ways we participate in local efforts to serve the community.

SUPPORTING RINCONCITO DEL FIN DE MUNDO DE AYUDA Y CONTENCIÓN

We offer support to local women in need, through a range of initiatives, including local events and onboard auctions and raffles to raise money for clothing, food and school supplies for kids.

MIDDLE SCHOOL CHALLENGE WITH ESCUELA JULIO VERNE

In this year-long competition, students competing in teams of two are tasked with creating a presentation that is Antarctica-themed, and judged for both its creativity and scientific insight. The winning team receives an internship on a voyage to Antarctica.

HOME VISITS WITH INUIT COMMUNITIES

In an effort to create better understanding of native cultures and enrich the overall travel experience for our guests and communities we visit, we arrange visits with Greenland community members, who welcome guests into their homes, typically with tea, sweets, and a bit of local lore.

CAREER STUDIES WITH UNIVERSIDAD DE TIERRA DEL FUEGO

In this post-degree program in development with Polar Latitudes Expeditions, students will have an opportunity to apprentice aboard our ships, where they'll learn about career opportunities in the polar cruise industry.

SHIP VISITS

We organize ship visits for a number of local groups, ranging from primary and secondary school students to local authorities, with presentations tailored to their educational needs, career aspirations, and political support.

ENSURING A BRIGHTER FUTURE FOR STUDENTS AND THE POLAR REGIONS

SOI (Students on Ice) is a Canadian nonprofit founded in 1999 that inspires young people through educational expeditions to Antarctica. These transformative journeys empower students to become informed leaders and advocates for a more sustainable future.

More than 4,500 students have participated to date, and many alumni now lead initiatives in business, science, education, and sustainability around the world.

Polar Latitudes Expeditions provides travel and logistical support to SOI students, and we encourage everyone interested in supporting this important cause to learn more at <https://soifoundation.org/en/about/>.

A Pioneering Technology to Both Discover and Protect our Planet's Most Awe-Inspiring Citizen

A sudden whale sighting is bound to be a highlight of any polar voyage. But on occasion, direct whale encounters with ocean vessels can put these marvelous creatures at risk. In 2024, Polar Latitudes began teaming up with Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution to incorporate a state-of-the-art whale detection system on all our voyages. This technology helps us identify whales in our immediate area, increasing your opportunity to experience them up close, while increasing our ability to keep the Seaventure at a safe distance.

A 10-YEAR PARTNERSHIP WITH WOODS HOLE OCEANOGRAPHIC INSTITUTION

We first began partnering with Woods Hole in 2015, providing cabins and logistical support for their critical research into the evolving feeding and migrating habits of Antarctica's whale population. Another recently formed partnership, with Oceanities, is aiding their scientists in efforts to document changes in penguin populations due to climate change.

Without the kind of support we provide, ongoing research in hard-to-reach places like Antarctica would simply not be viable for NGOs like Woods Hole and Oceanities. Our relationship with these organizations not only helps enable their critical scientific research, but also enriches the experience and understanding of our guests, through the presentations and insight they provide.

Citizen Science: Making a Difference on Every Voyage

Citizen Science is a program we pioneered in 2013, as the very first polar operator to officially collaborate with The Polar Citizen Science Collective. Today, we are the only expedition provider that offers this important data-collecting partnership to guests on every voyage. We team up with the collective on several projects, each playing a meaningful role in recording and better understanding the Arctic and Antarctic ecosystems and the impact of climate change. This is particularly helpful in the Antarctic, where we support long-term academic observation teams that would find it nearly impossible to be as ever-present on their own. The projects offered may vary slightly by voyage and scientific need, but all are equally important.

Everyone is welcome to participate in any or all of the outings, and we typically hear that it was a highlight of their voyage. If interested, please see the onboard daily bulletin and join the scheduled Citizen Science Introduction Meeting at the start of your voyage. There is no cost involved.

Ongoing Projects

COLLECTING DATA FOR THE SOUTH GEORGIA BIG SEAWEED SEARCH

The aim of this project, led by scientists from London's Natural History Museum, is to study the seaweed diversity and distribution in South Georgia, assessing threats from climate change and invasive species.

CLOUD OBSERVATIONS FOR NASA GLOBE OBSERVER

By observing and recording cloud cover & type timed to NASA satellite fly-overs, we help scientists understand how surface and air temperature are affected by cloud cover, and how clouds respond to a changing climate.

PHYTOPLANKTON DATA FOR SCRIPPS INSTITUTION OF OCEANOGRAPHY

By collecting phytoplankton samples in fjord systems along the Antarctic Peninsula, we help scientists obtain a seasonal picture of phytoplankton abundance, composition, and distribution, as well as how phytoplankton are influenced by (increasing) melt-water inflow from glaciers.

SEABIRD SURVEYS FOR THE CORNELL LAB OF ORNITHOLOGY AND EBIRD

The project is building a long-term ecological monitoring program of seabirds in the Southern Ocean and along the Antarctic Peninsula. These recordings help researchers understand how birds use oceanic habitat, to discover new details about the lives of these remote species, and ultimately how their behavior and populations might be changing as a result of climate change.

SECCHI DISK STUDY FOR THE SECCHI DISK FOUNDATION

Measuring Secchi depth, a measure of the depth at which you lose water clarity, is another important indicator of the relative abundance of phytoplankton, critical to Antarctica's food chain. Using a Secchi Disk, our Citizen Scientists record and report findings to The Secchi Disk Foundation in the UK.

A Day at the Poles

There's no 'typical day' in the polar regions – every day brings something new – and that's why we love it! But here is a little taste of what our guests might experience while exploring the polar region.

Early Morning

Wake up, surrounded by unique and brand-new landscape. As the morning unfolds, early risers begin to stir for hot coffee and pastries, others to the gym, and a few to the Observation Deck to soak up the view, while the Expedition Team busily prepares the Zodiacs for the day's adventure. Breakfast awaits in the main restaurant, where a generous buffet offers everything you need to fuel your day.

Late Morning

Once breakfast is over, it's time to explore! Activities typically take the form of Zodiac cruises on the water or landings ashore, sometimes in inhabited places such as villages or research stations, but more often in pristine wilderness. For extra variety, optional activities, workshops, and lectures will also be offered.

Early Afternoon

After your first exploration, lunch is served in all our dining areas on board, and occasionally in our outer decks. We offer both a la carte and buffet options, with menus changing each day and always including vegetarian, and special dietary options. After lunch, you can relax, soak in the views from our saunas, and slowly get ready for the second adventure of the day!

Evening

Wrapping up the day, you'll attend the Expedition Leader's Recap and Briefing, where you'll learn the next day's plans and highlights from the day. Next, dinner time! Gather with other fellow explorers and bond over delicious, ever-changing cuisine, laughter and shared once-in-a-lifetime experiences. Finally, spend a few hours to relax, before retiring to rest, ready for another day of adventure.

Afternoon

Our Captain has positioned the ship at the next landing site, where guests can once again enjoy a Zodiac cruise and/or a landing to experience the destination up close—perhaps on a longer hike or by meeting locals and learning about polar life.

When to Travel to Antarctica

While Antarctica is an explorer's dream destination throughout the travel season. Every part of Antarctica's season offers something extraordinary. From the raw, untouched beauty of early November to the golden calm of March, each period reveals a different face of the Peninsula, and a unique range of wildlife activity. Here's how to choose the right time based on your travel style and greatest interest.

Wildlife Enthusiasts

Best time: December to February

These are the liveliest months on the Peninsula. In December, penguin colonies bustle with nesting activity, while January brings the joy of watching fluffy chicks take their first steps. By February, whales arrive in large numbers, especially Humpbacks feeding in calm bays, making it an ideal time for close encounters. If you're drawn to vibrant animal behavior and abundant wildlife, this is your season.

First-Time Explorers

Best time: December & January

Looking to see it all? These mid-season months strike the perfect balance. You'll experience active penguin rookeries, growing chicks, and increasing whale sightings, all while enjoying milder weather, relatively stable seas, and long hours of daylight. Whether it's your first time in Antarctica or your first major expedition anywhere, these months offer an ideal blend of comfort, activity, and wonder.

Landscape Photographers

Best time: November & March

Light defines the experience during these months. November offers pristine, snow-covered landscapes beneath soft, dramatic skies, with long shadows and fewer ships in sight. March brings warm, golden tones and deeper contrast as the sun dips lower on the horizon. Both months feel quieter and more atmospheric, with powerful visuals that lend themselves beautifully to storytelling through a lens.

Whale Lovers

Best time: February & March

Whales are at their most plentiful and active toward the end of the Antarctic season. This is the best time to observe humpbacks feeding in large groups, spot curious orcas near the ice edge, and hear whale blows across calm seas. With quieter waters and fewer ships in the region, these voyages offer exceptional opportunities for close, respectful wildlife encounters and marine photography.

Adventure Options

The heart of every expedition lies beyond the ship's rail. Our voyages are designed to maximize your time in the polar regions, with a hands-on program of activities that brings you closer to the landscapes, wildlife, and stories of each destination. Many off-ship activities are included in your expedition, while select Optional Activities are available at an additional cost and must be booked in advance. Led by experienced Expedition and Activity Guides, all activities are designed to suit a range of interests and comfort levels, so you can choose how adventurous your journey becomes.

Optional Activities

For those who wish to go even deeper, we offer a carefully curated selection of optional activities that add an extra layer of adventure to your expedition. Led by our professional and passionate Activity Guides, these experiences allow you to challenge yourself, explore at your own pace, and connect more deeply with the polar environment.

Camping

Spend a night immersed in the Antarctic wilderness and experience the polar environment at its most intimate. Wrapped in warm expedition-grade bivy gear, you'll sleep beneath the polar sky, listening as distant ice cracks and glaciers shift as light slowly fades and returns. With limited availability, polar camping is a rare and unforgettable experience best reserved in advance.

 Exclusive to Antarctica

Photography Program

Designed for passionate and experienced photographers, this immersive program pairs a small group with an award-winning photography instructor for focused, hands-on guidance. Daily outings are tailored to photographic opportunities, supported by onboard workshops and image reviews that refine technique, composition, and creative vision. With limited places available, this program offers a deeper, more intentional way to capture the polar world.

Snowshoeing

Snowshoe across Antarctic terrain with ease, venturing farther from landing sites to reach elevated viewpoints and expansive snowfields. This optional activity allows you to move comfortably over soft snow while taking in wide, uninterrupted polar vistas. No prior experience is required, making it an accessible way to explore more of the landscape on foot.

 Exclusive to Antarctica

Kayaking

Kayaking offers a quiet, powerful way to experience the polar regions from water level, gliding past icebergs, glaciers, and wildlife with only the sound of your paddle breaking the surface. We offer two distinct kayaking options, allowing you to choose the level of immersion that suits your experience and interest.

IMMERSIVE KAYAKING

Designed for confident paddlers who want to kayak as often as possible, this small-group program is limited to just 10 participants. With a dedicated kayak guide and safety Zodiac, immersive paddlers have the opportunity to kayak during most excursions and landings, weather and conditions permitting. This is the most in-depth way to explore the polar environment by kayak.

DISCOVER KAYAKING

Perfect for those curious to try polar kayaking without a full-voyage commitment. The program offers a single guided outing per voyage in a small group, with full instruction, support, and safety cover.

Included Activities

Our expeditions are designed to immerse you in the polar world from the moment you arrive. A wide range of included activities is built into your voyage, ensuring a rich mix of exploration, discovery, and shared moments – both ashore and on board. These experiences form the heart of the expedition and are available to all guests.

Zodiac Cruising

Glide among towering icebergs and glaciers in heavy-duty inflatable rubber speedboats.

Guided by our expert team, each Zodiac excursion brings you up close to wildlife and stunning polar scenery.

Shore Excursions

Venture ashore for guided walks or hikes across beaches, tundra, and snowfields, or scale higher ground to take in spectacular vistas. Every step immerses you deeper into the sights, sounds, and silence of the polar wilderness.

Onboard Photography Coach

Our onboard Photography Coach is available to all guests, offering practical guidance during Zodiac cruises, shore landings, and from the ship's decks. Through informal advice and short presentations, they help you navigate the unique challenges of polar photography, from changing light to wildlife encounters.

Please note: All Adventure Options are subject to weather and sea conditions, fitness and medical requirements. Activity offerings vary by departure.

Citizen Science

Take part in our Citizen Science program by assisting with wildlife observations and simple data collection that supports ongoing polar research. These hands-on activities deepen your understanding of the polar environment and its conservation.

Polar Plunge

Take the legendary Polar Plunge and step briefly into the icy polar sea - a fun, optional tradition on our expeditions. Cheered on by crew and fellow travelers, it's a memorable moment and a true badge of polar adventure.

Daily Lectures

Enjoy engaging daily lectures led by our expedition experts, including scientists, naturalists, and historians. These talks offer valuable insight into polar wildlife, geology, and history, enriching each day's discoveries.

Our Fleet

Purpose-built for exploration, our fleet is designed to take you deeper into the polar regions – safely, comfortably, and responsibly. From modern expedition ships to classic polar vessels, each plays a distinct role in delivering immersive journeys defined by time ashore, flexibility in changing conditions, and access to remote places few ever reach.

Engineered for polar performance and guided by experienced crews, our ships combine thoughtful design, a small-ship atmosphere, and a shared commitment to exploration. Wherever you travel with us, you can expect a vessel that supports the adventure rather than overshadowing it, allowing the landscapes, wildlife, and moments ashore to take center stage in every journey.

Ocean Albatros

Ocean Albatros represents the next generation of expedition ships, purpose-built for polar exploration with comfort, stability, and sustainability at its core. Featuring an innovative X-BOW hull and hybrid diesel-electric propulsion, the ship offers smoother sailing in challenging conditions while reducing fuel consumption and emissions.

WHY ICE CLASS MATTERS

In the polar regions, a ship's ice class is more than a technical specification. It is a mark of capability, safety, and access. Ice-class vessels are specially reinforced to navigate sea ice with greater stability and confidence, allowing them to operate safely in remote and unpredictable conditions.

Our fleet, Ocean Albatros, Ocean Victory, Ocean Nova, and Seaventure, is purpose-built for expedition travel in Antarctica and the Arctic. With strengthened hulls, advanced stabilization systems, and designs optimized for polar waters, these ships combine safety, comfort, and performance, ensuring you can explore icy landscapes responsibly and with complete peace of mind.

Gearing Up for the Last Wild Places on Earth

It's true that the Arctic and Antarctica are cold, and the weather can be unpredictable, but the ships are comfortable, and a few key articles of clothing will do the trick when heading out to explore. Dressing for polar conditions is not unlike packing for a ski vacation – with a few additional suggestions to help you stay warm, dry, and comfortable in changing conditions.

Travelling Solo

We periodically share special offers designed for solo travelers. Subscribe to our newsletter to be among the first to hear about these opportunities.

Independent in Spirit, United by Discovery

Expedition travel invites connection in its most natural form. Conversations unfold on deck as ice drifts past. Wildlife encounters become shared memories. Even quiet moments of reflection feel part of something larger. Travel independently and become part of an extraordinary community.

Travel solo. Explore together.

SHARE A CABIN, TRAVEL SMART

Guests who are open to sharing may request to be paired with a same-gender cabin mate in a twin or triple cabin, allowing you to avoid the single supplement. Many solo travelers find that sharing adds to the journey, often turning cabin mates into lasting friends

SPACES DESIGNED FOR CONNECTION

Panoramic lounges, open decks, libraries and presentation areas offer welcoming places to gather. Whether discussing the day's sightings over coffee or watching ice drift past with a glass of wine in hand, connection happens naturally.

DEDICATED SINGLE CABINS

For those who prefer complete privacy, dedicated single cabins are available on our ships. These cabins offer the same refined comfort and attention to detail, providing a quiet personal retreat after a day of exploration. Availability is limited, so booking in advance is recommended.

DINING WITHOUT FORMALITIES

There is no assigned seating onboard. Tables for two, four or larger groups make it simple to join different guests throughout the voyage. Solo travelers are always warmly welcomed at every table.

AN INTIMATE ONBOARD ATMOSPHERE

Our small ships create an atmosphere that feels personal from day one. With fewer guests onboard, conversations begin easily and friendships form organically. Our expedition team of scientists, naturalists, historians and photographers are approachable and always happy to share their knowledge and passion for the polar regions.

A JOURNEY ON YOUR TERMS

Join every landing, every Zodiac excursion and every expert presentation, or take a quiet moment to take it all in from the deck. Expedition travel offers the perfect balance of shared experiences and personal reflection.
